2013 Management+ Conference Goes Big!

APWA Colorado held its annual Spring Management Conference May 2nd and 3rd at the Doubletree Hotel in Denver. The theme this year was “Let’s Go BIG!” The conference was well attended by over 130 public and private sector engineers and public works personnel. A special thanks is extended to the sponsors and speakers that make this conference affordable and very worthwhile attending. It was great to see many familiar faces and for the opportunity to network among peers and valued clients.

There were a number of very informative speakers present on many topics including specific projects, leadership, impacts of oil and gas development, innovative design and partnership opportunities, regulatory updates as well as technical and legislative matters. The lunchtime speaker, Kathie Novak, lecturer in the Daniels College of Business at the University of Denver, gave a presentation on Leadership Lessons from Dr. Seuss. We had the pleasure to learn about an innovative intersection design competition used by the City of Lincoln, Nebraska as well as informative sessions on the DIA South Terminal Expansion and Repurposing the Highline Canal. On Friday, we had the opportunity to learn about the Hoover Dam Bypass Project and the integration of design and construction on technical bridges and attendees heard from a panel of local officials about oil and gas drilling in Colorado.

Message from the President

Recently while on vacation, my wife and I were walking around the tropical island of St. Kitts, USVI in the Caribbean. Not surprising, we were looking for a place to get some of the locally produced drink, rum. We happened upon an older gentleman wearing a reflective vest and driving a pickup with the insignia of St. Kitts department of Public Works. If anyone knows where to buy alcohol, it’s our colleagues and friends in the Public Works department. Well, he actually didn’t drink but was very helpful to get us going in the right direction. We chatted for a few minutes and it’s not surprising to find that even in the tropics, the song remains the same. That is, he had the same financial struggles and construction woes we all face here in the States.

That experience reminds me that we all have the opportunity to learn from each other if we take the time to ask and listen. There is no better way to seek out that advice or provide your story than to attend this year’s APWA International Public Works Congress and Exposition in the windy city of Chicago, August 25-28. If you’ve never been to a National Congress, now is the time. This 3.5 day event is sure to give you more insight and knowledge to bring back to your coworkers and communities than you can imagine. If you plan to attend, please join us for a lake cruise dinner as we celebrate our Colorado Chapter on Monday, August 26th. Thanks to Pete Adler (Arvada) for arranging this great event. We hope to have our international friends joining us as in years past so do not miss this opportunity.

A little closer to home, please make plans now to attend our Western Snow and Ice Conference once again in Estes Park. Save the dates for September 25-27 and plan to join your friends from around the nation as we showcase our talents and learn new skills in the equipment rodeo. This event is sure to meet your expectations. Thanks to the hard working committee for what is sure to be another very successful conference.

Finally, you should have seen or heard about the opportunity to enroll in the first year of our newly formed Rocky Mountain Public Works Institute. The inaugural year will be starting in September. Registration is now open! Our vision and mission are listed below:

Vision: To have public works leaders at all levels of an organization who motivate and create a positive work environment which enables their agencies to fully serve their communities.

Mission Statement: To provide a regional program that educates and elevates public works employees to achieve their management and leadership potential through interactive classes taught by experienced public works officials.

Keeping the vision and mission statements in mind, the committee has been hard at work developing the curriculum and recruiting instructors. The year long course will begin September 13th and will be held on the second Friday of each month at the Urban Drainage and Flood Control District office in Denver. Applications must be filled out to attend. Please discuss this with your agency’s Public Works Director or feel free to contact me at steve@cityofdelta.net.

What a summer it will be. I’ll see you out and about at our various events, and maybe someday (fingers crossed) I’ll meet you in the Caribbean as I finish out my career working Public Works in the tropics!
APWA & CARMA co-sponsored a successful Spring Street Conference in Grand Junction this past April. The conference experienced record attendance at its new location at the Clarion Inn. There were 145 attendees and 64 vendor representatives that braved the unpredictable Colorado spring weather.

Comedy mentalist Sean Bott, opened the conference and amazed the audience with his distinctive comedy and innovative mental feats.

The conference program highlighted certification training again this year; offering Forklift and Flagger certification programs.

The all-encompassing agenda covered several timely and interesting topics including:

- Chainsaw Safety
- Pavement Management
- Municipal Stormwater Discharge Permits
- Asset Management
- Chain Use Safety
- Next Generation Workforce
- Welding Safety
- Strategies for Reducing Outdoor Workers Exposure to UV Radiation
- Geosynthetic Reinforced Soil as Bridge Foundation
- Importance of Technology in Government
- Gravel Roads: Making Maintenance Dollars Last
- Benefits of Warm Mix Asphalt
- Extending the Service Life of Concrete Pavements.

The new location provided an outdoor arena for operating some of the heavy equipment that was on display. Regrettably, winter weather conditions limited operation this year. We look forward to offering additional equipment and hands-on opportunities next year.

New this year was the double elimination Pool Tournament. Eight teams participated in the tournament sponsored by Vance Brothers. The Clarion Inn constructed two horseshoe pits exclusively for the Conference. MacDonald Equipment sponsored the Horseshoe Tournament again this year that had fifteen teams vying for the top spots. Cobitco, Inc. sponsored the hospitality hour the evening of the tournaments.

Join us in Grand Junction for new certification programs and training topics at next year’s conference!

Save the Date!
April 23-25, 2014
This spring, eight students were selected to receive scholarships from the APWA West Slope Branch for their pursuit of a career in the public works field as well as their outstanding scholastic achievements. The scholarship recipients were recognized at the annual West Slope Spring Street Conference luncheon on April 18 and were able to mingle with public works employees and managers.

Chase Jones - $2,000 Horizon Scholarship. Chase is currently an undergraduate at Colorado State University majoring in Environmental Engineering. Chase is from Montrose.

Dakota Miller - $2,000 Horizon Scholarship. Dakota is originally from Pagosa Springs and is a current undergraduate at CU-Boulder majoring in Civil Engineering.

Giovanni Hernandez - $1,500 Jim Goolsby Memorial Scholarship. Giovanni graduated from Rifle High School and will attend Lincoln College of Technology to study Automotive Technology.

Henry Gray - $1,500 Randy Parsons Scholarship. Henry is a graduate of Glenwood Springs High School and will attend Colorado Mesa University to study Construction Management.

Carter Stoudt - $1,000 Horizon Scholarship. Carter graduated from Cedaredge High School this spring. He plans to attend Colorado State University to study Civil/Environmental Engineering.

Curtis Beutler - $500 Horizon Scholarship. Curtis is currently an undergraduate student at CU-Boulder studying Environmental Engineering. He is from Montrose.

Jacob Fedel - $500 Horizon Scholarship. Jacob is a graduate of Ouray High School and will be attending Colorado State University to study Biology.

Hayden Heinold - $500 Horizon Scholarship. Hayden graduated this spring from Ridgeway Secondary School and will attend Fort Lewis College to study Construction Management.

Congratulations to the 2013 scholarship winners! The APWA West Slope scholarship application is open every year to graduating high school seniors, current college undergraduates, and employees currently working in the public works field.

Scholarship information can be obtained by contacting the APWA West Slope Scholarship Coordinator, Susie Hervert, at shervert@vailgov.com.
In Memoriam - Joe Owens

APWA Colorado sadly recognizes the passing of Joe Owens. Joe had been an active member of CARMA, the Western Snow & Ice Conference and the Spring Street Conference for many years.

Joe started in the Heavy Equipment business at Booth-Rouse Equipment Company in March of 1964 in the Parts Department. This is where he began to build business relationships with many people he became friends with. In 49 years in the business, Joe worked his way to Sales Manager for Booth-Rouse and then chose to enter a business venture with Ken Black at Macdonald Equipment Company.

Joe is survived by his loving wife of 49 years Dorothy Ann Owens; sons Joe (Dana) Owens, Tim (Danelle) Owens and Ken Owens; grandchildren Kellen, Onna, Preston, Harrison and Caley; great-grandchild Kellen Joseph “K.J.” Owens; sisters Margie (Clint) Wilterding and Letty (Terry) Miller; brother Howard Owens and numerous nieces and nephews.

- Winter Maintenance

What makes APWA different from other professional associations?

“APWA engages the full spectrum of public works professionals, and they’re all equal stakeholders. I’m a member of other professional organizations but don’t see the rate of return that APWA brings.”

—Kurt Corey, Director of Public Works, City of Eugene, OR

“What I find by being a member of APWA is its “one-stop shopping.” Other associations can specialize in their areas of expertise, which is great, but what APWA does for me is that I can go to one place and find all the information on any topic I need in the very diverse world of public works.”

—Brenda Herrman, Director of Public Works (retired), City of Hays, KS

Individual membership $85 for your first year (regularly $169)

Group pricing is also available.

This special rate offer ends December 31, 2013.

The Annual APWA Spring Golf Tournament saw the highest participation in the past decade with over 100 players this year. The event raises funds for APWA’s scholarship program primarily aiding public works professionals in developing their education and careers. This event moved to the very scenic Arrowhead Golf Club and was highlighted by a visit from Mother Nature herself with some heavy rain. Although she managed to toss some Forrest Gump sideways rain at the golfers, everyone bucked up as the weather got better and no one even complained! Public Works folks are a tough bunch, and based on some of the shots that were witnessed, it is clear that the grass at Arrowhead is tough too, based on the whacks it took!

Players came from as far as the mountain communities, Pueblo and Fort Collins for this great event. The sponsors again turned out. Their support is critical to the event’s success and everyone in the field walked away with prizes.

The 2014 location has not been set, but watch for emails in the fall. We look forward to seeing everyone again next year and we will have a talk with Mama Nature to get her in line! We know that those of you that plow snow are regularly informed by the public and media that we public works leaders have a direct line to Mother Nature to get her straightened out when we need to!

See you all at the Fall Golf event!

2013 National Public Works Week

“Because of Public Works...”

Agencies across the nation celebrated National Public Works Week May 19-25. Since 1960, APWA has sponsored this week to educate the public on the importance of the contribution of public works to their daily lives: planning, building, managing and operating the heart of our local communities and building the quality of life.

This year’s theme, “Because of Public Works” recognized how the field of Public Works helps communities to have clean water, safe streets and neighborhoods, and efficient traffic.

Many local agencies celebrate and promote the work of their public works departments during this week by holding special events and activities.

The City of Golden holds a Public Works Trivia contest in their local newspaper and on their web page. They received lots of entries and awarded prizes to six winners!

On May 21, the City of Loveland held their 10th annual Public Works Day Celebration! The day offered approximately 1500 students a glimpse of the types of services Public Works and the Water and Power Departments provide the community on a daily basis.

Each year, the City of Loveland staff makes an effort to create a learning environment so children get a little education along with lots of fun. Some of the highlights at this year’s event were the water wheel that allows students to experience a flood rain, an equipment show highlighting the machinery used on a daily basis, and demonstrations on the power of electricity and the water/wastewater system. Educational booths include displays of school zone signs children see on a daily basis and information on recycling and energy uses around the community.

Thanks to generous sponsors, each child received an orange Public Works backpack!

The kids get a chance to check out the equipment and “kick the tires”!
The Jack Bruce Scholarship is a joint scholarship with ACEC and is named after the long time Public Works Director of Denver who passed away in 2002. The scholarship is given to a college junior or senior engineering student. The selection is based on students in good academic standing who are also actively involved in outside activities. The $2,500 scholarship for 2013 was awarded to Rosalind Reynolds, a civil engineering student at Colorado State University.

A Look Back at Colorado Chapter History

The Story Goes....
While attending the first APWA Colorado Chapter Annual Meeting in 1963 in Fort Collins, Jack Bruce, who, at that time, was the Traffic Engineer for Denver spotted some City of Fort Collins street department employees at work. He chuckled to watch them paint the downtown crosswalks with a paint roller as the City had no paint striping equipment at the time. The “big city” engineer was teased by his “small town” counterparts!

Ted Borstad

APWA Colorado Past President Spotlight

1992 COLORADO CHAPTER PRESIDENT

Ted Borstad

Having a school advisor recommend a career in engineering for Ted Borstad was not only a good choice for Ted but the people of Colorado have benefited greatly from that choice!

Ted was born in Brookings, South Dakota and grew up on a farm near Bruce, South Dakota that was homesteaded by his great-great-grandfather. He attended a one room country school, skipping the 3rd grade, until the 6th grade. His early jobs included hauling bales, working on farms and trapping and even skinning muskrats for a nickel a piece! While in high school he won a trip to Washington DC through the local Rural Electric Cooperative. He was able to visit both houses of Congress and meet with the South Dakota congressmen. While there, the group was bussed onto the White House grounds where President Lyndon Johnson and Billy Graham spoke to about 300 students from across the country. He graduated from Estelline High School in 1968. While in college he worked two summers as a surveyor in the Black Hills before graduating from South Dakota State University in 1972 with a bachelor’s degree in Civil Engineering.

After college he headed to Colorado on a job hunting trip and was offered a job in Aurora. Ted and his new bride, Beverly, spent the first part of their honeymoon pulling a U-Haul trailer to their new home in Aurora! Other than a short stint in Sheboygan, Wisconsin (1977-1982), he has worked in Colorado for two years early in his career. He has worked for EHMG in Aurora, Donohue in Wisconsin and RBD in Fort Collins before starting his own firm, Borstad Consulting Services in 2003. He considers starting his own firm the highlight of his career with the opportunity to work closely with great clients and their interesting projects. His specialty is pavement management and general civil engineering. He has worked for cities, counties, universities and other consultants.

For almost 20 years of his career, he was fortunate to work on projects at the Air Force Academy. Ted designed all facets of infrastructure; roads, parking lots, runways, and water/sewer. During that time he completed over 300 projects and found it to be professionally challenging and rewarding to work at such a great facility.

He was also involved in designing the backbone infrastructure (water, sanitary sewer, storm sewer) as Fitzsimons Army Base was converted to the University of Denver Anschutz Medical Campus. Ted has continued his involvement by updating the utility record maps periodically.

Favorite Quote:
“Don’t speak unless you can improve upon the silence”

During the time that he worked for the City of Fort Collins, Borstad had the opportunity to meet Roger Krempel (1985 Colorado Chapter President). Roger introduced Ted to APWA and was a great mentor to him. In 1988 Roger asked Ted to put on a conference on short notice. They pulled it off and Ted became involved with the Chapter working his way up through the ranks. While Ted was president they started informal roundtable lunches after Chapter Board meetings. The level of detailed knowledge that public works professionals had on a variety of topics always impressed Ted. A Public Works Director from a smaller city would have an extensive knowledge base including dump trucks, trash hauling, graders, the latest stormwater regulations, and asphalt repair.

He was also an active member of ASCD, ACEC, SAME-Pikes Peak Post, Fort Collins Water Board and Fort Collins Habitat for Humanity.

Ted and his wife, Beverly, have been married for 40 years. Bev works part-time for Pathways Hospice in the Finance Department. They have three children. Chris (Beth) has a PhD in Civil Engineering and works for NASA’s Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena studying glaciers. Abbey and her fiancé, Chad, live in Sacramento where she works as an Advertising Brand Director. Stacey and her fiancé, Sherwood, live in Denver where she works for AEG Live. They enjoy being grandparents to Stacey’s three year old daughter, Dagny.

Ted is now semi-retired where, as he likes to say, he is practicing to see if he’ll be any good at it! He enjoys playing golf and is proud to say he has had that rare privilege, as all golfers will attest, to make a hole-in-one at the Air Force Academy. He continues to practice the game as a member of the Eaton Country Club. He also spends time bicycle riding and touring. Last fall, he and Bev biked for 12 days from Pittsburgh to Washington, DC. Since turning 50 he has hiked fifteen fourteeners. He and Beverly also enjoy traveling. They visited Europe several times while Ted’s brother was stationed there in the Army. Favorite trips have included Hawaii and Sweden. He and Bev recently purchased a motorhome and are looking forward to traveling the country.
Colorado Chapter Rocky Mountain
PUBLIC WORKS INSTITUTE

Training a new generation of leaders in public works

Institute graduates are public work leaders who motivate and create a positive work environment, enabling their agencies to fully serve their communities.

Is the Institute for you?
• Do you consider yourself a leader in your organization, or want to become one?
• Would you like to improve your supervisory or management knowledge and skills?
• Do you want to enhance your qualifications for a more responsible position?
• Are you already a first-line supervisor or higher?
• Have you recently been promoted to a position with supervisory duties?

The Rocky Mountain Public Works Institute provides a regional program that educates and elevates public works employees, helping them achieve their management and leadership potential through interactive classes taught by experienced public work officials. The institute follows the proven APWA model that has been successfully implemented by a number of other APWA chapters throughout the country.

Core topics include:
• Supervisory techniques and skills
• Basic management skills
• Communication skills
• Leadership skills
• Community service/customer orientation skills
• Legal understanding
• Fundamentals of government
• Finance
• Resource management skills
• Public works operations

The Rocky Mountain Public Works Institute takes one year to complete with sessions every 2nd Friday of the month. New sessions begin each September with applications due August 15 of each year. Classes are typically held at the Urban Drainage and Flood Control District office in Denver, Colorado. A course fee of $1,000 includes training, materials, morning snacks and lunch for each session.

Application available at http://colorado.apwa.net

Questions?
Contact Pamela Weimer at 303-979-2190 or bdweimer@msn.com.
Scholarships are available.

Completion of this institute meets the education component requirement for APWA’s Donald C. Stone Center Public Works Supervisor (PWS) and Public Works Manager (PWM) credential. For more information on the DCS credentialing programs, call 1-800-848-APWA or visit http://www.apwa.net/donald-c-stone.
